straightforward honest act and say that the Chaplain has no business in this Legislature. If you all would like to set up a situation where he can visit you in your offices and counsel with you when you need it, I have no objection to that. If you want to set up a situation at one of the lobbyist's office where early in the morning you can pray with him and sip or whatever you do in these lobbyists gatherings, I have no objection to that. All I say is that never should this Legislature be the forum for a preacher of one given religion. Some people would find me no more abhorrent up there than some people in this body find that Chaplain to be. So let's be fair, ladies and gentlemen of the jury, and let's come in with a verdict which comports with the facts of the situation we find ourselves confronted with as a legislative body. My motion is offered in seriousness and I am going to vote for myself, and if selected, I assure you I will serve and I will tell you why I will reject the salary, not because I can't receive two state salaries at the same time, but I feel that what I am offering is supposed to be in the way of human uplift and enlightenment. I am trying to expand your sensibilities as human beings and expand mine also. Why cannot I eliminate the monetary element in it? Why cannot I show you that the words In God We Trust does not mean that the dollar that it is printed on necessarily is the God which is involved and perhaps you will allow me in this humble fashion to be an example to the religion merchants throughout this state, that these things which we say are holy and ought to be shared with everybody should be freely given, freely given, and then the one giving would have to be an example of what he preaches. So that is my motion to amend the motion of Senator Lewis to substitute the name of Ernie Chambers for that of the Right Reverend Doctor Palmer for Chaplain and I assure you that everything you see on me is mine. There is nothing false or deceptive or misleading about me. Everything you see is mine. There is no vanity connected with me, and don't shake your head in being upset, Senator Hasebroock, I understand it is painful for you but I go through pain and suffering every morning. I just conceal mine better. We must be strong and some of us are always going to be outsiders but a lot of times it takes those outsiders to sharpen the issues and zero in on just what it is we are dealing with and my intent was to strip away all of the smoke and all of the charade, so that if something ugly is before us, we will see it in all its ugliness. On the other hand if it is beautiful and, Senator Kremer, if this is what Christianity is about, then I want that to be clearly demonstrated, too.

PRESIDENT: One minute, Senator Chambers.
